"With the current market environment, finding a provider that we know will be financially strong going into the future was particularly important. The City was looking for someone who could offer price transparency and provide quality service with a solid financial history, and GDF SUEZ meets all of these qualifications. We've been extremely pleased with the partnership we've had with the company this far, and we are happy to extend it."

—Jack Ireland, Director of Equipment and Building Services for the City of Dallas
